Guided by his Catholic faith and Filipino heritage, Ira approaches every role with passion, fairness, and a commitment to making a positive difference. His educational journey, shaped by Catholic schools from elementary through university, led him to earn degrees in philosophy and law. Ira has more than twenty years of experience in government, project management, procurement, occupational health and safety, and emergency response.

In 2016, Ira and his family settled in Vegreville, Canada. Since that time, he has taken an active role in the community, participating in various volunteer positions—from proudly serving as a Knight of Columbus to working as a firefighter, a member of the Town of Vegreville's Economic Development and Tourism Board, and an executive officer and coach with the Vegreville Minor Soccer Association. Ira also co-chaired the GCWCC–United Way Charitable Campaign alongside Prairies Economic Development Canada, where he is currently employed as a Procurement Officer.

Rooted in faith and family, Ira and his spouse, Joemelle, maintain a vibrant lifestyle with their three children. His dedication to community service—grounded in the belief that true service begins at home and extends outward—continues to guide both his personal and professional life.
